

Design Type: Reflector

Reflectors are the rarest of the five types (less than 1% of the population). A Reflector is a person who has no defined channels in their design. They are completely open and are here to reflect energies with no set filters. They can be totally vulnerable in the sense that every one of their centers is open. This process is different than all the other types.

Reflectors, because they are open, have no consistency to rely on. They are totally open and can be vulnerable when they don't understand how they function. If they identify with what they are taking in and amplifying they can get lost and confused. They can be conditioned to live from who they are not. One minute in their world can bring a sense of awe and wonder; and the next the potential for disappointment. Their lack of inner authority can lead to disappointment.

Reflectors come into the world absorbing everything. They are open to experiencing the awe and wonder of their world and surroundings. Their gift is in recognizing who can have the outer authority that they can trust as their own inner authority. Reflectors can be the wisest people we know and also quite powerful. They take other people in on a very deep level. Like a mirror they can shine the light on those they reflect. When you are with a Reflector, know that you are seeing yourself. You are always being reflected back. If you want to know how you are doing in a relationship; if you want to know how your business, family or community are doing; all you need to do is look at the Reflector. They are reflecting that energy back and it is amplified.

Because of this a Reflector must accept the authority of others. They are always defined by the association and auras of others. They are here to be open to outer authority, to take that authority in and to filter it. It is not to be filtered blindly. When a Reflector makes a decision or processes information they must wait out the lunar cycle. They have to talk with others. They need to get from others some kind of reflection, some kind of mirror for their potential decision. They must have people around them they can use as a sounding board.

The question for Reflectors is "Can I be myself"? It is important to tell them they can discover who they are through a pattern and that discovery process takes 28 days. Unlike the other types, that are all solar types (which means they operate from an imprinting program rooted in the sun); the Reflector is a lunar type that reflects the imprint of the moon. As lunar beings, their strategy is to wait a full 28 days (a full moon cycle) before they can make a decision. This pattern repeats itself 14 times a year. This pattern is who they are.
